Last Saturday (May 12th, 2007) Coca-Cola Soundwave Discovery Tour stopped at the spoiled capital. In the early afternoon fans and interested people already gathered at the entrance of Kesselhaus, where a jolly evening should start. As doors finally opened at 7:00 pm 1500 music enthusiasts surged into the being anxious to the three newcomer bands.

The evening was started by the 4 guys of Better Than Bad from Essen. The quartet calling themselves vision rockers didn't care much for their role as opener and rocked from the beginning. With their mix of different styles paired with a confident performance they got the crowd enthusiastic - A hard job for the next band... (Quote: www.Coca-Cola.de)

Better Than Bad plays music from alternative to britpop to American emo hitting all facets of rock. Their musical inspiration they get from the Beatles, 70s Rock, Punk und Grunge. With a lot of power and enthusiasm they satisfy this broad spectrum of music.

Better Than Bad

Heiko Doer, Guitar

Sven Walther, Bass

Sebastian Ennigkeit, Voc/Guitar

Rudolf Reiz, Drums

Vision Rock: The quartet from Essen comes along with a whiff of British attitude and takes you to a musical journey thru great dreams, bold visions and dark melancholie. Convincing instrumentalists paired with a distinctive voice makes the live performance of these 4 guys an extraordinary adventure.
